

Councilmen Say BART Treating DC 'Shabbily'

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District is treating San Mateo County in general, and Daly City in particular, shabbily concerning construction of a parking garage at its Daly City station.

This is the consensus of two Daly City councilmen who have been negotiating with representatives of BART on the building of $6 million-plus garage west of the terminus station on John Daly Boulevard.

Both councilmen Victor Kyriakis and William Schumacher said Monday they felt "a lot of prejudice against San Mateo County" in recent negotiations with BART over charging parking fees at the proposed garage.

"They think they are absolutely entitled (to a parking fee at the garage)," Kyriakis said.

In their discussions with Daly City, BART Directors Elmer B. Cooper, John H.

Kirkwood and Ella Hill Hutch made no bones that they ran on an election platform hostile toward San Mateo County "getting a free ride," Kyriakis said.

The reference to a "free ride" was believed related to the BART station in Daly City, built without San Mateo County money.

City Manager David Rowe revealed that BART already had spent some $150,000 of Daly City's $300,000 turned over to them as matching funds needed for government money to build the garage.

The money was used for studies and design planning, it was explained.

BART has spent $50,000 during the same length of time. However, once federal allotments toward the garage are made, BART will be fully reimbursed — but Daly City will not.

After reaching tentative agreement with BART two weeks ago, Kyriakis signed the agreement, but Schumacher balked at giving the agreement the nod.

Since that time, the city has further discussed the issue.

Schumacher had suggested that perhaps a surcharge should be attached to any BART charge for parking. This extra money would go toward offsetting costs of policing the station.

Although BART has its own police department, investigations of crimes occurring at the station fall under the jurisdiction of the Daly City police.

City Atty. Albert Polonsky informed the council that such a surcharge violates existing law.

A disagreement between Rowe and Polonsky arose over whether BART could immediately impose parking fees at its lots.

Rowe said, "yes." Polonsky refused to give a flat "yes" or "no" answer, while also noting he would "not agree or disagree with Mr. Rowe's comments."

The multi-level parking garage that some think will be a panacea for parking ills affecting the area, will not solve anything, Councilman Paul Hupf predicted.

Hupf said he thinks the garage will "just store more cars" and that BART users still will park on surrounding streets.

Rowe agreed there still would be a "spill over" of cars on city streets and that the garage would not be able to handle all the cars.

Kyriakis said he believed BART did not want any more patronage from its Daly City station, because riders boarding there were taking all the seats away from "tax paying" San Francisco riders.

And BART now realizes that its optimistic views of the past, about trains whizzing around its 75 mile system at 10-second intervals, is unlikely, Kyriakis ventured.

The head of Daly City's Transportation Committee, Kyriakis, thinks "BART is content right now" with its Westbay patronage.

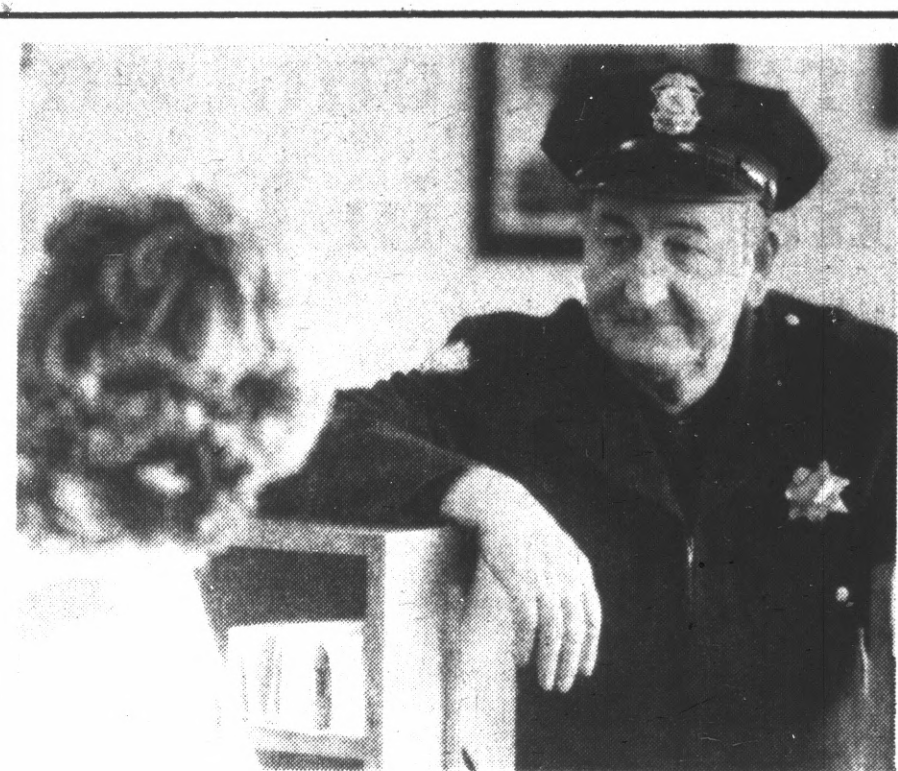

Hupf questioned whether BART would have received sufficient ridership if it had stopped the line at Balboa Park — where Daly City had hoped it would stop 10 years ago.

BART's profits are predicted on the Daly City terminus station, Hupf said.

Mayor McRobert Stewart said the city has tried to be a good neighbor, "but this is getting more difficult as we go down the road."

He vowed that Daly City would continue to try to be a good neighbor.

Hupf warned BART is "kind of pushing us more than I like to be pushed."

ON THE BEAT

Charles "Chuck" Munday chats with Betty Williams of a savings and loan company in the Westlake area — an area he has patrolled on foot for the past 2½ years. Secret of his success in dealing with businessmen is to "get out of patrol car and meet them."

Daly City Loses a 'Damn Good' Officer

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The words of veteran Daly City police Lt. Bud Terry pretty well sum up the feelings around the community.

"Daly City is losing a damn good cop."

Charles Munday has been more than just a "good cop" over the 27 years he has pounded a beat in all areas of the city — he has been a friend of old and young alike.

And many of the children he helped cross Mission Street back in the 1940s have come back to tell him so, many introducing their children to "Chuck."

Businessmen speak highly of the grizzled police officer with the somber face.

Behind that mask of somberness, however, lays a cat-quick mind and an overwhelming sense of humor and fairness.

Munday is known not only for his police sense, but for a no-holds-barred sense of humor.

Take the time Munday wanted to shake up a jail block janitor who liked to poke his nose into places that were not his concern.

Munday, and a fellow officer, backed a stray horse into the cellblock and when the janitor, curious to know who was booked, opened the door, he came face-to-face with the equine.

And then there's the story of the owl Munday put in a closet.

Or the skunk he brought into the jailhouse one morning, the racoon, opossum or any number of critters he "rescued" on his beat.

A lot of cops arrest drunken car drivers and have their vehicles towed to a storage yard.

But Munday is one of the few officers who arrested a drunken horseman and then "drove" the horse to a nearby stable, escorted by police cars with flashing lights.

All hasn't been fun and games with Munday.

He did not get his reputation as a good cop by poking fun at folks.

Munday has been smashed up in car accidents and fallen off ladders, he even hurt himself vaulting fences after a burglary suspect — all in the line of duty.

He joined the department back when the late W. W. Sunderland was chief and there were 16 men on the rolls.

"Westlake hadn't even started back then," Munday recalls.

Everybody knew Charlie Munday along Mission Street in the "old days."

He was the cop who fired a dazzling round of golf on the local links, and rarely fired a gun.

He was the cop who would rather talk to a kid and steer him straight, than dump him in a reform school (guidance centers they call them nowadays).

Munday was the cop who would take a drunk home and if the wife felt he would cause trouble, Munday let him sleep it off in the drunk tank — no arrest or mark against the drunk.

"You can't do that today," Munday says. "Today, you have to charge a person in order to admit them to jail."

Known among his fellow officers as "Johnny-on-the-Spot," and the man they would want to back them when things started to break, Munday today says he is ready to quit.

"The fire of enthusiasm has just gone out. I saw everything you can see—from a policeman's standpoint. I'm happy to say that in all my years I never had a kid hurt at one of the school crossings I covered," he said.

In the past, police had a better relationship with children and parents than they do today, Munday feels. Today there appears to be more hostility toward police.

Advice for rookies coming into the department?

"Make a friend once in awhile. Get out of your car and walk around," Munday suggests, adding "also alter patrols of neighborhoods to throw off the bad guys."

Charlie "Chuck" Munday hails from Galesburg, Ill., but hasn't been back since he left at the age of 10.

He was a graduate of the "old" Woodrow Wilson school and Jefferson High School in Daly City.

And he was one of the first policemen to be hired under the present civil service examination procedure.

Friday, the 60-year-old ex-cop (he ended his career on Feb. 28), will be the guest of honor at a party to be held at the Italian-American Social Club in San Francisco.

Munday and his wife, Lorraine, live with their son, Claude, who recently returned from a tour of the Far East with the United States Air Force.

The couple's daughter, Martha, currently attends University of California at Berkeley.

How will he spend his retirement?

"I'm going to hunt pigeons — those that I can take out to the golf course. I'll probably play it by ear for awhile and sharpen up my golf game," Munday replied.

Studies Start to Determine Cause

More Garden Valley Flooding

Studies today are underway in Daly City to determine the reason for continued flooding in parts of Garden Valley, an area that recently had the storm drain system modified at a cost of some $500,000.

City Manager David Rowe said the area now subject to flooding in heavy rainfall is not the same section that previously was affected.

The city installed a 96-inch storm pipe through the area, connecting it to a huge drain pipe put in by the county, which eventually dumps the runoff into nearby Colma Creek.

In the past, water would burst from street manholes because the underground system was unable to confine it.

With the installation of the new system, the water no longer lifts manhole covers and spills onto the roadway, inundating homes, Rowe explained.

It is believed that the problem now arises from rain water "slipping over" drain inlets instead of entering them.

Rowe suggested that perhaps a sort of "catch basin" should be constructed around the inlets to stop the water.

Councilman Anthony Giammona told a contingent of homeowners at a recent council meeting on the matter that he sympathized with them.

Mayor McRobert Stewart blamed the lack of proper catch basins and said he feels the pipe is adequate to carry off the storm waters.

Stewart said he had been "sold on the project" and the fact it doesn't seem to be working "bugs me no end."

"I'm going to have some answers on why it isn't working," Stewart vowed.

At the same time the Garden Valley drain was built, a similar project was constructed through the Westlake Estates section of the city.

A special five-cents per $100 of assessed valuation was levied on all Daly City taxpayers to pay for the two projects.

The Westlake Estates project has proven it can handle even heavy storm runoffs.

Councilman Paul Hupf said he was "dismayed" by the revelation the system apparently wasn't doing the job it was designed to do.

"A lot of effort went into it," he said.

It was also explained by residents that silt was getting into the system from developments under construction in the area.

What worries the homeowners is that flooding will worsen if and when a development is made on San Bruno Mountain, and when the Blossom Valley subdivision is completed.

Hupf instructed Rowe and City Engineer Dave Macabee to give the project top priority.

New Blackout Imposed In Matthew's TV Case

A judge in Redwood City Monday imposed a rare news blackout on the disposition of a false advertising and deception of a false advertising and deception civil case against Matthew's TV and Stereo City in Daly City, contending publicity could adversely affect an unrelated jury trial involving the owners of the business.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert D. Miller is holding the file of the case in his chambers.

He imposed his unofficial order on the press Monday, when asked by reporters to see the file.

"As far as I'm concerned, I made an agreement and an understanding with the attorneys," Judge Miller said. "We felt any publicity could interfere with the impartiality of a jury trial in progress."

The judge asked the press to voluntarily agree to the blackout pending the outcome of the "false arrest" trial, now in its third day, before Superior Court Judge

James T. O'Keefe in Redwood City.

While that case has some of the same defendants, it is not related to the alleged false advertising and deception case initiated by the district attorney's office last December 18.

In that case, the D.A.'s office alleged that an investigation revealed 36 instances of false advertising and deception in a three-week period.

Television personality Tom Campbell also was charged in the complaint, which sought $750,000 in civil penalties, on the basis he allegedly was aware that his radio broadcasts were untrue, chief consumer fraud attorney Margaret Kemp said last December.

The ads are aired over several major Bay Area radio stations.

The complaint also sought to enjoin the business from the advertising practices it had at the time of the complaint.

Other defendants in the case are Steven M. David of San Rafael, president of Matthews, his wife, Gale, and his brother, Anthony P. David of San Francisco.

Steven David is also a defendant in the unrelated "false arrest" trial.

It had been known for several weeks that a compromise disposition was being attempted by attorneys for both sides. A court date was set for today at 9:30 a.m.

Miss Kemp told a newsman about the compromise, but none of its details. Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson, at his regular morning press conference, said he had been asked by Judge Miller not to announce the resolution.

Among allegations were "bait and switch" practices.

Hospital Oxygen Tube Fire: 1 Hurt

A patient receiving oxygen at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City was badly burned on the face Thursday when she lit a cigarette left by a visitor.

It was learned a registered nurse on the hospital's staff, and a male therapist saved the middle-aged victim from further injury by extinguishing the fire and pulling the patient — bed and all — to safety.

Burning debris from the oxygen equipment fell to the floor of the Coronary Care Unit and melted the fire retardant rug.

Drapes in the tenth floor room are also fire resistant and were only scorched, a fire official said.

The victim, Eileen Cunningham, was receiving oxygen through a nostril hose, when she apparently decided to light a cigarette butt left by a visitor about 5:17 p.m.

As she brought the burning cigarette near her face, the oxygen exploded causing the woman to suffer first and second degree burns of the face.

A registered nurse rushed into the room and pulled the woman out, while therapist Garlef Obest extinguished the fire with a special chemical.

Woman Now Denied Food Stamps for Unborn Child

There will be no food stamps for the unborn child of a Daly City woman, a federal judge ruled Thursday.

The decision vacated a temporary restraining order made in January by a U.S. District judge which allowed Mrs. Pamela Hickman to purchase extra food stamps for her unborn child.

The decision for issuing the temporary restraining order was a first for the country, and was aimed at alleviating malnutrition in pregnant women who could not afford to buy sufficient food.

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg, however, decided against granting the food stamps in the Hickman case because it had not been proven "the denial of increased food stamp benefits for pregnant women is responsible for injuries being demonstrated to the court."

Many dieticians and nutrition organizations contend that an inadequate diet could affect the well-being of an unborn child and could have lasting physical effects on a child.

Mrs. Hickman was almost eight months pregnant when she asked for help from the courts on the food stamp allotment she was getting.

Now, she is only days away from giving birth.

Bruno Mountain Plans Rapped in Draft EIR

Visitation Associates' proposed Crocker Hills development on San Bruno Mountain would pose adverse environmental impacts in many areas, according to the draft environmental impact report (EIR) prepared by URS Research Company and released Wednesday by the San Mateo County Planning Department.

The report notes that approximately 233 acres of the proposed development site if 1,244 acres is planned for residential use.

Housing units would total 7,355 to accommodate a projected population of 18,500 persons, with the family economic strata ranging from annual income of $9,100 to $28,000, with an overall average of $15,600.

Four types of housing are planned.

- Town terrace house ranging in height from two to three stories, with a density of 15 to 20 dwelling units per acre.
- Garden apartments ranging in height from three to four stories, with a density of 25 to 35 dwelling units per acre.
- Mid-rise apartments, ranging from 6 to 12 stories, with a density of 45 to 55 dwelling units per acre.
- High-rise apartments, ranging in height from 12 to 20 stories, with a density of 65 to 75 dwelling units per acre.

The report cites potential significant adverse impacts in three areas of compatibility between adjacent existing and proposed land uses:

- "Perhaps the most sensitive relationship to occur in the project between project and non-project land use is that between the proposed Saddle Community Center and the proposed (1,244-acre) regional park.
- These two uses, which are separated by the (Guadalupe Canyon) parkway, are of significantly different intensities and sensitivities.

"Without sensitive urban design, the natural character and balance of the park site could be substantially impacted by its proximity to the intensely active town center."

- "A major functional and symbolic land use is expected to be created at the east entrance to the project.

"Retail and office commercial uses proposed for this location will interface with Bayshore Boulevard and Guadalupe Canyon Parkway to form a highly visible and acceptable 'gateway' to the project area contrasting with surrounding uses."

- "Probably the most sensitive relationship that would be created between existing and proposed man-made land uses would occur along Hillside Boulevard and Randolph Road.

"Here, an existing area of older, single-family, detached housing will interface with approximately 40 acres of new single-family attached and multi-family housing. The result will be an intensification of human activities across and along this interface."

The EIR notes "three notable differences, considered significant adverse impacts," between the proposed project and the General Plan of South San Francisco:

- The project plan does not provide the elementary school site plan called for in the South San Francisco General Plan.
- The project plan indicates a substantially higher residential density per developable acres (14.7 dwelling units per acre) than does the city plan (0 to 6 units per acre).
- The project plan calls for commercial development along Airport Boulevard, where the city plan shows none.

There are two potential significant adverse impacts between the project plan and the newly adopted land-use element of the Brisbane General Plan, the EIR says:

- The Brisbane plan shows an open space buffer along a portion of the Saddle site, fronting Guadalupe Canyon Parkway, where the proposed project plan shows a community center, an elementary school and residential uses.
- The Brisbane plan shows open space for the Brisbane vicinity site, where the project plan shows industrial uses.

The original EIR document, six inches thick, will be available for public view at all branches of the San Mateo County Library, as well as at the County Planning Department in Redwood City. A series of public hearings will be scheduled for review of the draft EIR and to secure input for preparation of the final report.

Other areas of significant adverse impacts listed in the draft EIR:

- Vegetation — reduction of known and potential range of coast rock cress, a rare plant species, by up to 10 per cent, from the Saddle site; loss of vernal pools, freshwater wetlands and relatively rare plant communities from the Saddle and Northeast Ridge sites, including a rare and endangered plant species.
- Wildlife — loss of a reported site of the endangered San Francisco garter snake and the protected red-legged frog, called a "worst case" situation; loss of more than five acres of shrub habitat which supports brush rabbits and quail.
- Visual quality — High-rise structures will alter natural land forms as viewed from surrounding communities.

Three Held In Shooting of SSF Man

Three San Brunos were arrested Tuesday morning in connection with the kidnapping and attempted murder of a South San Francisco man Monday.

Police allege the three men, abducted Richard Allen Davis, 23, shot him and left him for dead along the Bayshore Freeway near Brisbane.

Booked at the South San Francisco police station were Lawrence Mark Cauchi, 23, Mark Dwaine Henderson, 30, and Ned Anthony Wilson, 30, all of San Bruno. All three were charged with intent to commit murder, kidnapping and conspiracy.

The victim, Davis, is being treated for a gunshot wound in the back at Mission Emergency Hospital in San Francisco. He is reported in stable condition.

According to police the three men approached Davis walking on C Street in South San Francisco about 12:30 a.m., Monday, and at gunpoint demanded that he get into a car.

Police said when Davis refused to go with the alleged kidnapers he was pistol-whipped and then dragged into the auto.

The trio, police allege, drove Davis to an isolated area east of the Bayshore

Freeway near Brisbane.

There police said, the men ordered Davis to get out of the car and to walk slowly into the dark. When Davis started to run, police said, one of the men shot Davis in the back, and he dropped to the ground.

Sign Law Headed for More Talks

That proposed sign ordinance that has been hanging around Daly City for the past two years may continue to be discussed for some time before it finally becomes law.

Monday, Councilman William Schumacher said he was not quite satisfied with the sections dealing with political signs.

He protested the section which limits the number of signs based on population.

Schumacher said some candidates might only be able to afford a small sign — perhaps 12 by 24 inches — yet, they would be limited to erecting only a certain number of them, while candidates with more money might be erecting larger 4 by 8 foot signs.

Woman Faces Murder Charge

Charges of assault with a deadly weapon against a Daly City woman who allegedly shot her ex-husband Friday have been changed to murder after his death Saturday.

Rubin Mendoza, 33, died several hours after undergoing surgery for two bullet wounds — one in the abdomen and the other in his right arm.

Police said Mendoza's estranged wife fired two shots at the victim during an argument at her home at 276 Winchester St., about 1:12 a.m. Saturday.

Now charged with murder is Helen Valencia, 54. According to reports, Mendoza was still on friendly terms with his estranged wife and often visited her.

He came to see her Friday night, and an argument erupted.

Police said she pulled out a .25 caliber handgun she kept hidden in the house and although the room was dark, shot toward Mendoza, who allegedly was tossing lighted matches at her.

Theft Suspect Lands in Jail

Sheriff's deputies said that a man from Vancouver, British Columbia, was wearing the wrong hat Sunday when they squelched an alleged hassle involving the man and two women at the desk of the Hilton Hotel at San Francisco International Airport. The hat, said deputy Gil DeVinenci, had been stolen earlier from an airport security guard, who said he left it at the clearance point.

The 31-year-old man, who said he was president of a stereo firm, was charged with receiving stolen property.

Mistrial in Coast Drug Slayings

Superior Court Judge William Lanam declared a mistrial Friday in the murder trial of Louis Reynolds Jr. after the jury of nine women and three men reported it was deadlocked at 6 to 6 following 2 1/2 days of deliberation.

Reynolds, 34, of Oakland, an undercover federal narcotics agent, is accused of the double slaying of Junias Joe Miller, 41, and Barbara Ann Lacy, 25, last May 30 in Miller's Pacifica apartment.

Judge Lanam declared the mistrial and dismissed the jury at 3 p.m. following the 13-day trial. He set today at 9:30 a.m. as the time for scheduling a new trial date.

It is alleged by the prosecutor, Deputy Dist. Atty. John E. O'Lary that Reynolds was about to conclude a purchase of 60 ounces of heroin from Miller, allegedly a major Bay Area drug supplier and that he owed Miller $6,000 for drugs.

The prosecutor contended that Reynolds intended to slay Miller, and that Miss Lacy was killed because she was a witness.

Three Hurt In Freeway Accident

Three teenagers were injured Saturday when the car they were riding in went out of control on IR 280 in Daly City, left the roadway and rolled down a 60-foot embankment.

One of the victims, Raul Matus, 17, of 8 Ocean Grove Drive, Daly City was pinned under the car and had to be pried free by Daly City firemen.

Two others — Randall Cass, 17, and Kathy Garcia, 14, both of Daly City — were ejected when the car flipped over the steep embankment, a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol said.

The 12:20 a.m. accident occurred in the northbound lanes of the freeway, CHP said.

All three victims were taken to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment. Matus and Miss Garcia were treated for minor injuries and released. Cass remains in the intensive care unit with multiple internal injuries. He is reported in satisfactory condition.

Police were unable to establish who was driving the car.

Transit Board Names General Manager

By FRANK LaPIERRE
The new nine-member San Mateo County Transit District Board appointed an acting general manager for the district during its shake-down meeting Wednesday in Redwood City.

County Engineer Sid Cantwell was named to the post on an interim basis, pending hiring of a full-time staff for the district.

County Treasurer Ross Conti was named as the district's fiscal officer.

Compensation for directors met with some opposition from Chairman Edward Bacciocco, San Mateo county supervisor, who said he did not think it wise for the board to assign itself the maximum allowable amount under the law — $50 or meeting not to exceed $100 per month.

Director Janet Fogerty, a South San Francisco housewife, said she needed the money, albeit a small amount, to help defray costs of attending the meetings such as for transportation and child care.

The issue passed with Bacciocco dissenting. Bacciocco last week de-lined taking a supervisory pay increase amounting to $200 monthly.

Paul Cowgill, of San Bruno, asked that an ad hoc committee be established to set up stringent guidelines for expenses.

The board unanimously agreed.

It was also discussed whether Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley, vice chairman of the Transit Board, should be allowed to have part of his expenses picked up by the district for a trip to Washington, D.C., to attend a two-day transit seminar.

Lumley explained Pacifica also was paying part of his expenses for the trip.

While in Washington, Lumley is expected to meet with government officials and discuss transit matters, it was explained.

Also, the board agreed to pay for two members to attend the League of California Cities meeting scheduled to be held in San Francisco tonight to discuss transit matters.

Cost of the meeting is $7.50 per person.

There were hopes expressed that transit directors attending these meetings would lobby for San Mateo County on all transit issues.

Bacciocco voted along with other board members for these items.

Considerable discussion was held on whether the district, charged with mapping ways and means of implementing a countywide transportation system, should engage a full-time staff immediately or use county personnel.

There were fears expressed that the county may try to "take over" the transit district. These fears are

No Extra Funds Allocated

San Mateo County's newly formed transit district failed to receive any additional federal funding from the Metropolitan Transportation Commission which announced a series of new allocations at its meeting in Oakland on Wednesday.

However, this county has received a total of $937,357 for the 1975-76 fiscal year.

A total of $10.4 million was disbursed by the commission, the main chunk, $3.6 million going to San Francisco to offset in part the anticipated $45 million deficit of the San Francisco Municipal Railway.

Deadline for the allotments approval by the commission was Wednesday. However, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. must give his approval of the grant allocations. So far he has made no comment.

unfounded, County Supervisor and Board Director William H. Royer said.

Royer said the board should take advantage of Cantwell and his staff's expertise, pointing up the fact they have been working on transit related matters for several years.

Director Robert Morris said the board had no other option but to call on the county staff during the transition period required to establish a full-time district staff.

The county staff cannot carry its daily workload and also devote necessary time to the district, Director C. Robert Payne said.

A budget of $84,000 has been submitted for transit district expenses ending June 30, 1975.

This budget includes funds for nine board members attending nine meetings ($5,062); administrative staff, which includes the county engineer and district attorney ($29,808 plus an estimated overhead of $14,904); county treasurer, deputy sheriff and clerical staff (total $9,975); and newspaper advertising and miscellaneous supplies ($4,251).

Other matters discussed at the meeting included funds available from various government sources for transit needs.

Conquistadors to Play at Skyline

An unusual display of colorful precision drill talent is scheduled for March 15 at Skyline College, San Bruno, when color guards from throughout the West compete for the first time in an all western states championship.

Entries include top units from Colorado, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon and California. The event climaxes the winter season for competitive guards.

The show, hosted by the Conquistadors Drum & Bugle Corps of South San Francisco, begins at 5:30 p.m. in the Skyline gym.

Uniformed flag and rifle units slated for the competition include the nationally famous Casper, Wyo., Troopers, the Seattle Imperials, Anaheim Kingsmen and ConKingsmen and Concord Blue Devils.

Others are the Argonauts, Salem, Ore.; the Shamrocks, Concord; Vanguard, Santa Clara; California Cavalry, Garden Grove; Trifilian, Concord; Live Oak High School, Morgan Hill; Cascades, Seattle; Black Watch, Auburn, Wash.; Blue Knights, Denver; Eldoradans, Denver; Golden Statesmen, San Diego; Royal Regiment, Los Alamitos; and Knight Raiders, Sunnyvale.

Each of the competing guards, composed of up to 21 marchers, performs its own distinctive precision drill focused on presentation of the national colors. Scoring is by professional judges on the basis of perfection in marching, flag and rifle handling and general beauty.

Admission donation is $2.50 for adults, $1 for children under 12. Snacks and refreshments will be available.

The Conquistadors are the Northern Peninsula's marching and music representative and are Class B champions of the California Drum & Bugle Corps Circuit. The corps is sponsored by VFW Post 4103 of South San Francisco and is co-sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation Department.

Birds Victims of Discrimination?

By JACK BIK

Discrimination should not be practiced in Pacifica, even if the victims are only unpopular birds.

This was the view expressed by city councilmen at a recent meeting as they discussed a new animal control ordinance. Pacifica's animal control program is far more advanced than most cities, since it has one of the few Animal Advisory Commissions, meeting monthly on animal problems.

Council member Janice Fulford objected to the section making it unlawful to kill or injure any bird or destroy its eggs or nest — except for starlings, pigeons and English sparrows.

"A starling is not a very nice bird," she said, "but I don't think that anyone on the council can tell the difference between a starling and a nut-hatch. Somebody killing a bird can always say he thought it was a starling."

I don't like leaving loopholes."

Mrs. Fulford also criticized a section concerning animals in heat as public nuisances.

"It's the male animals going after her who are the nuisances," she said.

Deputy City Atty. William Galston said the "public nuisance" phrase made prosecution difficult. For these and other criticisms, the council decided to return the ordinance to the Animal Commission.

Among other changes in the new ordinance are:

Bees could be kept in residential areas provided the Animal Advisory Commission approved, after a public hearing.

Stables would have to be at least 200 feet from the nearest house, instead of the current 125 feet.

Permits would be required from the commission for keeping five or more small animals, domestic fowl or household pets, provided that not more than two may be of the same genus.

The current ordinance simply says "two pets."

Permits would not be issued to apartment dwellers.

Roosters would be banned from residential areas, if over three months old.

Dogs would have to have annual vaccinations in order to obtain licenses.

Cat Club member is deleted from the commission, since the club is no longer in existence.

A person would be able to keep a vicious animal, if it is used for protection, and kept on the owner's property.

Two Oceana Pool Plans Under Study

Two plans for construction of a swimming pool at Oceana High School in Pacifica are being given serious consideration, according to Floyd Gonella, assistant superintendent of the Jefferson Union High School District.

Gonella heads a joint city-school district committee planning the new enclosed swimming pool to be built on the grounds of Oceana High School. The committee met Wednesday night to examine the issues.

Major issues involve the conflict between school use and recreational use and how deep to make the shallow end of the pool.

Committee members are trying to strike a series of compromises. Should the pool be too expensive to build, then the eight lighted tennis courts for a recreation complex passed in November that are part of the same bond issue cannot be completed. Also being discussed are landscaping, parking and dressing rooms.

The two plans under study include building a pool identical to the one just completed at Westmoor High School or to have one 75 feet by 83 feet. The Westmoor pool is 74 by 45 feet, and includes a therapy pool. The bigger pool, according to Gonella, would be more flexible, but also more expensive.

Gonella said that he hopes to meet with the architect, Milton F. Johnson, again, and to confer with some of the other committee members, including Board Chairman John Sloane, Councilman Sid Lorvan and City Manager Don Weidner. He is seeking a quick decision, since an inflation factor of 1.17 per cent a month is hanging overhead, he said.

12 Years of Pain

'I Feel Like a New Born Baby'

Jose Mora looked down at the bandages on his left leg with an expression of wonder on his face.

"I feel like a newborn baby," he said. "For 12 years I lived with pain day and night and now it is gone."

To Jose Mora, it is a miracle. After suffering constantly for over a decade from a burn he sustained in a forest fire in his native Baja California, he at last received the treatment he so badly needed at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City. And he owed it all to the efforts of the Flying Samaritans.

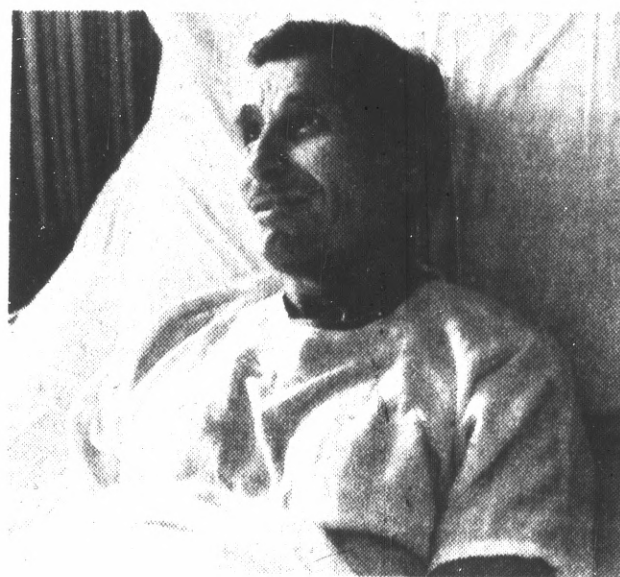

Mora, 53, badly burned his left leg while fighting a raging forest fire in 1963. A poor fruit vendor, he could not afford to receive needed skin grafts until over six years later. Unfortunately, the treatments he received in a Mexican hospital seemed to do little good, and Mora could afford no more medical care after that. He began to fear that his left leg would eventually have to be amputated.

For five more years he struggled with his pain and his dread. Then, Mora met Flying Samaritan Paul J. Pitlyk, M.D., Burlingame neurosurgeon and member of the Mary's Help Hospital Medical-Dental Staff. The doctor was making his monthly trip to the Flying Samaritan Clinic in Baja California, Mexico. For Mora, the Flying Samaritans were the answer to a prayer.

After examining Mora, clinic physicians realized that further skin grafts were needed immediately or the leg might indeed have to be amputated. Jose Mora, however, had long since exhausted what little savings he had. Without surgery, he would lose his leg. But how could a poor fruit vendor afford surgery?

The Flying Samaritans went to work. The physicians began to make arrangements for Mora's operation. Donald H. Wald, M.D., and Sean Moloney, M.D., of the Mary's Help Hospital Medical-Dental Staff volunteered to serve as general surgeon and plastic surgeon, respectively. Mary's Help Hospital, which has worked with the Flying Samaritans in the past, donated complete hospital care free of charge to Mora for the duration of the treatment.

JOSE MORA

"I know there is a God who watches everyone in the world."

Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA) arranged for Mora's free transportation into the United States, and in early February he was admitted to Mary's Help. Several days later, the operation was judged a success.

After a week's recovery period at the hospital, Carol Abrams, Mary's Help Hospital social worker, arranged with the Latin-American Mission Project for Mora to spend his several-week recuperation period with a Spanish-speaking family in the Bay Area.

Jose Mora cannot quite believe his good fortune. "All of a sudden I am in America and my pain is gone," he said. "I never knew that poor people had a chance for help, too." He hopes that he will be able to return to work when he goes home to Baja.

The Flying Samaritans is a nonprofit, private charitable organization which provides medical assistance in remote areas. Volunteer doctors, nurses and other professionals visit Flying Samaritan clinics in Northern California and the Mexican states of Sinaloa, Sonora and Baja California, and travel to other locations for consultations, emergencies and special clinics.

"The goal of the Flying Samaritans," a spokesman stated, "is to encourage those we aid to help themselves toward a more productive future."

Jose Mora put it all in simpler terms. "Ever since I went to the Flying Samaritan Clinic," he said, "I know there is a God who watches everyone in the world."

A Question of Power

In Baltimore scantily clad male go-go dancers who have been attracting crowds of exuberant women have been ordered to wear bikini tops. Furthermore, women customers at the taverns that employ the male dancers will not be allowed to stuff money into the men's briefs. Meanwhile the courts are being glutted with cases of men who have been denied jobs as stewardess and cocktail waitress. A wealthy old dame is being sued because she would not hire a female footman for her daughters. "It's a man's job," she said. All this was reported in the week when two state legislatures turned down the equal rights amendment.

So goes the battle of the sexes.

Someone who fights for housewives figured out that a wife is worth $257.73 per week, as reported in a Los Angeles newspaper (note: the hourly rates are in parenthesis): nursemaid ($2), dietitian ($4.50), cook ($3.25), dishwasher ($2), housekeeper ($3.25), laundress ($2.50), seamstress ($3.25), practical nurse ($3.75), maintenance person ($3), gardener ($3), and chauffeur (3.25). After publishing these figures a Los Angeles restaurant offered sage advice to quaking husbands. "Bring her here (the restaurant) for dinner and eliminate many of the costs."

This is the kind of advice that irritates Gloria Steinem, the outspoken and often acknowledged leader of the feminist movement. During an interview with Jerry Beigel that was published in United Airlines "Mainliner," Ms. Steinem charges that most women are the dominant force inside the home, but that is not only not good enough but actually unhealthy, and is a major reason why marriages fail.

"If you take any person," she said, "with all the intelligence and dreams which everybody else has and you restrict him (her) to a small sphere of operations—the house, essentially—you get very difficult to live with and you start putting your ambitions on your kids or your husband. You start living vicariously through them. Everybody should have a kind of work which is theirs and theirs alone, and I don't mean just housework. It's so repetitive."

Ms. Steinem calls the battle for equal rights a question of power. "Men allow themselves to be dominated at home because they've got real power outside. If you divided that work so that both men and women worked outside the home there wouldn't be this terrible polarization. No wonder men and women have bad relationships."

On the subject of chivalry, Ms. Steinem says it is not dead and should not be killed. "We can have and should have the little niceties, but based on real respect. In other words, if you are carrying the packages, I will open the door for you or light your cigarette."

Ms. Steinem is best known for her work as an editor and a writer for "Ms." magazine. Through this periodical her views reach Americans (the circulation is 400,000).

It is not chivalry that bothers her, but attitude. So often the "nice" things that men do are not "gentleness" but "a symbol of a deeper kind of attitude which says in effect, 'You are more fragile, you are less capable, you are childlike.'" Such an attitude leads to inequalities in pay and in opportunities. To end these Ms. Steinem is part of a movement that she calls a revolution against the "entire patriarchal, white supremacist system which now holds effective power in our society."

NELL NORTON

This first week in March we'll get an early start on special dishes for St. Patrick's Day. Today's feature is a hearty dinner inspired by Erin's Isle. Juicy round steak is cut into serving-size pieces, then bathed in a rich tomatoey sauce boasting bright carrot nuggets and plump sweet peas, along with succulent mushrooms. Don't peak at the dumplings as they bake atop the dish and they'll turn out light and fluffy every time.

SHAMROCK STEAK AND DUMPLINGS

- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 to 2 pounds round steak, trimmed and cut into serving pieces
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 2 cups water
- 1/2 teaspoon each salt and pepper
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 10-ounce package carrot nuggets frozen in butter sauce
- 1 10-ounce package sweet peas frozen in butter sauce
- 1 2 1/2-ounce jar sliced mushrooms, drained

Combine the fourth-cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper; coat the two pounds of steak thoroughly, reserving extra flour mixture. Brown meat evenly in large skillet or Dutch oven. Remove meat from pan and stir in 8 ounces tomato sauce, two cups water, one-half teaspoon each salt and pepper, and remaining flour mixture; add onion slices. Bring to boil, stirring frequently. Add meat and return to boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer one hour, stirring occasionally. Remove frozen vegetables from pouches; add, along with mushrooms, to the meat. Return to boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer one hour, stirring occasionally. Drop FLUFFY DUMPLINGS by the rounded spoonful atop the meat. Cover and cook 12 to 15 minutes. DO NOT LIFT COVER DURING DUMPLING COOKING TIME. Serves four.

FLUFFY DUMPLINGS

- 1/2 Cup flour
 - 1/2 Teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 egg, well beaten
 - 1 tablespoon cooking oil
 - 1/4 cup milk
- Sift the one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder and half teaspoon salt into a medium bowl. In small bowl combine the egg, one tablespoon cooking oil and fourth-cup milk. Pour all at once into flour mixture. Stir only until moistened. Drop by rounded spoonfuls atop meat-gravy. Cover and cook 12 to 15 minutes. Makes eight dumplings.

Unique Summer Planned By Local Counselor

Summer study can be, and often is, interesting, enriching, and even exciting. When summer school includes a trip to Europe, the whole idea takes on new attractiveness.

How about attending a high school conducted at the University of St. Andrew's in Scotland, studying not only literature and history of the countries visited, but learning and practicing golf at the birthplace of that great game?

This is only part of the program sponsored by the Institute of American Study.

Two weeks visiting London, Bergen, the Fjords, Oslo, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Paris round out the five week student tour.

Sister Michaela, school counselor and experienced European traveler, is now selecting students who will accompany her. Those who wish to learn more about this education opportunity may write to 15 Elmwood Drive, Daly City, 94015, or call 755-9210, 992-1282, and in Burlingame, 344-4012.

County, SF Relations Improvement Advised

San Mateo County mayors have been advised to become more involved with the elected officials of San Francisco, according to a county-retained consultant exploring the future water needs of the county.

The first phase of the "Comprehensive Water Resources Management Plan" was delivered by Walter G. Schultz, senior consultant for the firm of Leeds, Hill & Jewett, Inc., of San Francisco.

The main body of the report was generally optimistic as far as the Bay side of the county is concerned, but his prognosis for the southwestern part of the county's Coastside was less cheerful.

The report, however, was mainly concerned about the county's supply from San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy system, which does not serve the Coastal area below Half Moon Bay.

Edward Morey, president of the Peninsula Water Agency, said the plan was commissioned by the Board of Supervisors, who are not scheduled to hear an official presentation of the plan until next Tuesday.

Morey told the mayors that the study was first commissioned a year and a half ago when it was felt that San Mateo County would face a water supply problem between 1981 and 1990. At that time, he said, the county was the only one in the state without a water supply development plan.

Schultz, in presenting the plan, asked each mayor to take it back to his own city council to adopt it or propose any changes.

Councilman Milton Johnson of Portola Valley suggested, "Have it rain every day."

The study, Schultz reported, is being divided into two parts:

- The area served by the San Francisco Water Department.
- The Coastside area which depends mainly on San Gregorio and Pescadero Creeks and wells and runoff waters.

It was pointed out, however, after the meeting, that Henry Eich, chief sanitarian for the county's Department of Health and Welfare, has tested numerous coastal wells, only to find them polluted.

As far as the southwestern part of the county, according to Schultz, it has no future — even as far as recreation is concerned.

"A quick attempt must be made to determine if any viable means to improve existing resources exist," he warned. "If not, there goes the county's general plan. This makes a difference in which direction you will go. Even now, recreation presents problems which grow on weekends. You cannot look to the San Francisco Water Department here. I leave you concerned with the south Coast area."

As far as the other side of the county is concerned, Schultz said the San Francisco Water Department provides 87 per cent of its water supply — whose quality is one of the best in the state.

The department, Schultz reported, can continue to supply water supply for many years to come, although a number of things need to be done.

"A lot of them," he said, however, "are no more than mere gadgetry."

Schultz said the San Francisco Water Department now supplies 340 million gallons a day to San Mateo County, including Half Moon Bay, plus service areas in Santa Clara County as far south as Mountain View and in Alameda County.

This, he said should continue until at least 1990, but "in 1990 we shall be pretty close to running out of water."

He discarded solutions such as waste-water reclamation and desalinization, but reported that the San Francisco Water Department believes we have an equal right to its water.

The San Francisco department, Schultz reported, has developed only 75 per cent of its resources today, and cited an aqueduct across San Joaquin Valley.

There is no question," he told the mayors, "that we shall have problems, but this is 1975. The negotiations should begin now to see what will happen to the "fourth barrel."

Schultz, who said he is a San Carlos resident himself reported that the San Francisco Water Department itself is "friendly with its neighbors."

"The second step is to go ahead with existing facilities. Then we can look for alternative sources."

"It is important you let these people know before you go too far down the road," Mayor McRobert L.

Stewart of Daly City, chairman of the Mayors' Council, commented.

Arson Feared

A fire that heavily damaged an abandoned house near Lincoln Park in Daly City and injured a fireman Saturday morning is believed to be the work of an arsonist, Battalion Chief John Roy said.

The house, at 216 Winchester Ave., has been boarded up by the city awaiting removal, and the gas and electricity have been turned off for several weeks.

About 1:30 a.m., firemen were called to the scene to battle a blaze in the structure's garage.

Fireman Walt Lorimer received a deep gash on his right hand, while fighting the fire, Roy said.

"Pot o' Gold" for Tanforan Park Patrons

The latest promotion of Jack Kuks, general manager of Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants in San Bruno, is a customer appreciation "Pot o' Gold" Sweepstakes, with prizes including a 10-speed bike, clock-radios and even free gasoline. Drawings will be held every two weeks (March 12, 26 and April 9), and the prizes will change for each drawing. Winners need not be present. But if they are, they receive another bonus prize. Participants have nothing to purchase. Entry forms are available throughout the Garden Restaurant complex. If you're planning to drive to South Lake Tahoe or Reno, contact Nevada Tours and ask Kay about their bonus drive-up packages. The offer, good the year 'round, is a great way to enjoy a short Nevada spree with money-saving advantages. Khadija, a curvaceous bellydancer, made her debut during the Monday luncheon hour at Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco. She will be appearing mid-day every Monday and Friday in the Golden Rooster Lounge and again during the Friday evening "Happy Hours."

Quality Steak Dinners At Moderate Prices

Martini's Steak Pit in Millbrae has gained a reputation throughout the years as a "haven for steaks." The reason speaks for itself: quality steak dinners at moderate prices. As for entertainment, Dave Dodd entertains at the organ bar, Wednesdays through Saturdays, in the lounge. Saturday, March 15, remains the expiration date for the 50-cent dinner coupon now being offered by Tanforan's Park Garden Restaurants, in San Bruno. The coupon, which appears in today's "Bright Lights," may be applied toward any purchase over one dollar, or more. Present it at any one of the nine Garden Restaurants after 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Weekend suggestion: Catch the dance sounds and vocal artistry of Rich and Gina in the lounge of Vince Russo's Distillery in Burlingame. The duo, which has appeared at most of the major hotels and lounges on the Peninsula, will entertain here nightly, Wednesdays through Sundays, for an indefinite stint. A unique offering at the Superior Palace in San Francisco is Deem Sum, a special type of Chinese pastries. During the luncheon hours, a cart of these pastries is pushed from table to table for customer choosing.

"Happier Hour" Scotty Campbell's New "First"

Mary Lou Fox phoned to say that Scotty Campbell's has another "first." This distinguished Redwood City restaurant is now featuring the "Happier Hour," which also includes culinary surprises. From 10 p.m. to closing, Monday through Thursday, drinks (except premium and liquors) will be served for 75 cents. Also Friday and Saturday evenings from 10:30 p.m., and Sundays from 9:30 p.m. And it's without saying, Scotty Campbell's serves one of the best dinners in the Bay Area, with prime ribs of beef getting the dining "Oscar" year-in and year-out. It wouldn't surprise us one little bit if handsome Vince Licata, the Peninsula Seafood and Italian restaurant "king," branches out with restaurant interests in Las Vegas or Lake Tahoe. Vince commutes to the Nevada territory almost weekly — and not only to view the show extravaganzas. He's the only man we know who can make six the hard way with three duces. For that special Sunday Brunch, don't overlook Butterfield's Dining Tavern in Menlo Park. You'll find a unique menu selection to please the most discriminating taste from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Also serving luncheon and dinner. Live entertainment is a Tuesday-through-Sunday feature.

Tablesides Cooking at Phil Lehr's Steakery

Phil Lehr, creative owner-host of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco, has brought the art of tableside cooking to new heights of perfection. For a memorable dining treat, order the flaming Steak Diane, then watch in wonder as your waiter cooks it to order from a special cart right at your table. This is what you've been waiting for. By popular demand, Chef Ray Lim is again offering a Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday Dinner Special at The Skylark restaurant. Present the coupon, which appears in Bright Lights, before ordering and you receive a Chinese dinner for two for only $4.25, or a Choice Filet Mignon dinner for just $4.75. What ho, we have new restaurant owners on the Italian restaurant scene: Leo Cardosi and Tony La Torre offer a menu at Oliver's in South San Francisco that aims to please. Full course dinners served family-style include appetizers, soup, salad, pasta, entree, dessert and beverage. Also many a la carte suggestions. Frank and Fannie Torres are back to a very fast stride at their Torres Beach restaurant-hotel, located in Montara, just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One. Deluxe dinners or a la carte. Also a gratifying array of desserts.

Stickney's Hosts Ten Year Employee Party

Adrian Stickney honored several Stickney's organization employees with over 10 years of service at a recent Ten-Year Dinner Party held at Palo Alto's Shirt Tail restaurant. 52 employees, with service ranging from 10 to 22 years, gathered together for the festive occasion. Eighteen employees received beautiful watches commemorating their 10 years of dedication. Murray Lehr has just introduced several exciting new entrees to the luncheon and dinner menus at Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco. At dinner, the savory Breast of Chicken Coq au Vin, priced at just $5.75, is an instant hit with gourmets on a budget. And two new luncheon specials — Lamb Curry on Tuesdays and Spinach Lasagne on Thursdays — are always a quick sell-out. When you walk into Enrico Romano's Rockaway Beach restaurant you feel like you have just landed in sunny Italy. The menu, atmosphere and patronage make a winning combination. Everyone is in a happy mood and Romano strolls about like a true tycoon saying hello to old friends and greeting the daily new ones. One visit to Romano's and you're a steady customer from there on in.

SSF Schools Set Meeting

South San Francisco Unified School District trustees have set a special meeting tomorrow to consider the results of yesterday's tax election. Meeting last Thursday night, the trustees also told Ron Rovetta, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council, that they will respond to the teachers' "package of proposals" at their March 13 meeting. Under new state law, both teachers and school trustees must make public proposals prior to starting their private labor negotiations. The cost-of-living have requested a cost-of-living pay increase, plus a 4 1/2 per cent "catch-up" increase because their four per cent pay increase last year failed to keep up with the cost-of-living. School trustees decided not to change starting times of school, because of Daylight Savings time. Last year in January, schools were started a half-hour later because children were going to school in the dark. However, it was pointed out that this week, the sun rose at 7:12 a.m., before most children were out of their homes. Some children must catch their bus at about 7 a.m. — but within two weeks, all children will be starting out after sunrise. Thomas Fee, co-chairman of the Parent-Teacher Coalition Against Proposition C, complained that three presentations made against Proposition C at the last meeting by his group were not given in the minutes. Board Chairman John Dillon and Supt. Paul Nielsen replied that the purpose of the minutes was to give an account of what actions the board takes, and not to report on arguments presented during meetings. Not even the board members' arguments are given in the minutes, Fee was told, else the minutes would become too bulky.

In other business, the board:

- Appointed Stan Haney as project inspector for the $22,580 South San Francisco High School lighting project.

Le Paclni A Night With Curly

It has been this writer's privilege to have been coached by two of Ferndale's (Humboldt County) three known celebrities. While we only know of Len Casanova and his reputation as a great football coach, we played baseball at Portola Junior High School for Joe Oeschger (he was actually born in Chicago), who pitched the longest game (26 innings) in major league history, and we were in almost all of Glen Haas' P.E. classes at Mission High School.

Who is Glen Haas, you ask? Well, he may not be a celebrity to you, but he was and still is to any of the students who were in his classes during the 34 years he coached at Mission.

Actually, Haas, who at one time or another coached all sports at Mission, does qualify as a celebrity among old time soccer buffs, because Glen's booters took 12 city championships in a period of 18 years while Haas was coaching them. What did they do during those six off years? They only came in second place.

But Glen Haas is one of those rare people who is recognized not necessarily for any records he made, but just because he is, because he exists.

It's not easy to be five-foot-seven, totally bald, have a squeaky voice and teach physical education in as tough a school as Mission was when Haas did his time from 1923 to 1957... and to be respected. But Haas was respected and was respected because he was liked, and he was liked because those toughies from the Mission District could recognize a good human being when they met one.

Oh sure, they called him "Curly" behind his back and sometimes even to his face, and some of the bolder guys occasionally even rubbed the top of his slick pate for luck, but Haas never raised his hand to a student, only his voice. And when he raised his voice, the kids listened hard, because they knew that beneath that neat starched tan shirt always topped off by a neat black bow tie, there laid a body that was once declared one of the 22 most perfect physical specimens in the freshman class of over 100 at the University of California.

HAAS, those Mission toughies somehow sensed, had come up the hard way, too, and maybe had had a little touch of the wildness in him that they had in them. And they were right.

Glen's father had been a blacksmith and a teamster (he drove a genuine Concord Coach), and when Glen graduated from Ferndale High (in a class of 12) in 1919, he packed himself and a $1,000 legacy from his mother off to the Berkeley campus. But, as he coyly explained to his wife, Joyce, in later years, he discovered the dime dance halls in Oakland and in three months was washing dishes to work his way through Cal.

Haas, obviously, made it through Cal, and he almost made it all the way through Mission, but he retired prematurely at age 58, when he was stricken with cancer.

There were some who thought that Haas was through, but nobody who really knew him thought it, and the latter group was right. He and Joyce traveled extensively, and became the biggest fans of the UC baseball team, seeing every home game and most of the away games, giving moral support to Glen's old Mission colleague, George Wolfman, during the years Wolfman was head baseball coach at Cal.

And Haas never missed the annual Mission High Athletic Alumni banquet, nor forgot a name of one of his former students as they would crowd around him and marvel, "Mr. Haas (now it was no longer "Curly," but Mr. Haas), you never change." Always the same feisty little bald-headed guy with the barrel chest, squeaky voice, and the smile, always the smile.

Haas will not be missing this year's athletic alumni banquet, either... this year for sure. Because this banquet will belong to Glen. He is being honored with the establishment of the Mission High Glen Haas Fund.

So if any of you Mission High alumni out there in reader-land want to meet an inspiration in person, come re-introduce yourself to Glen Haas on Friday, March 7, at the Seven Hills Restaurant, California St., near Market.

Admission price, including dinner, tax and tip, is $7. Cocktails begin at 7 p.m., and dinner, God only knows when. If you wish to contribute to the Glen Haas Fund, make your check payable to the Mission High G. Haas Fund and mail to: banquet organizer Bill Mustanich at Mission High, 701 Frederick St., 94117. Curly awaits you.

IF YOU'RE INTERESTED in gossip from the "electronic media," herewith some choice tid-bits from some of our impeccable sources.

Eddie Alexander, KRON's sports director, was making, it is said, close to $50,000 per annum, and will be making somewhere between $70-90,000 in his new Los Angeles network job.

But, says an L.A. source, Eddie — whom everybody agrees is one hulla nice person — won't last in L.A. as long as Milt Kahn lasted in Northern California.

Our source claims that the first time good-guy Eddie giggles, "Good luck everybody," to the Southern Cal group, the station will be deluged with letters asking why they hired that square.

The South part of our state, it seems, likes abrasives types like Kahn, while we old softies up here like sweet guys like Eddie.

Ready for more? The reason why John Brodie accepted the job to take Alexander's place after having turned down the other two local TV stations in the past year (or so the rumor has it), is because he was TOLD by the network, who persuaded John that he needs the polish daily local exposure will give him if he is to continue on national TV.

More, more? Alexander, it is said, beat out John O'Reilly, KGO-TV's hosthot sportscaster, when network execs listened to John's tapes and declared, "He talks too fast." And O'Reilly, continue our impeccable sources, is on his way out, anyway, along with his look-alike weekend colleague, Barbara Hunter.

And who will take O'Reilly's place? Lon Simmons, if he wants the job, which he probably doesn't.

One more exclusive hearsay gossip rumor. Barry Tompkins, now in New York, is being groomed to replace Curt Gowdy when Gowdy retires. All we can say for that one is that the network's got nothing to lose.

LOCAL NOTE: San Francisco State won its third consecutive overall Far Western Conference wrestling title in the recent FWC Championships in Arcata. The Gators were already dual meet champs.

Once again they were led by two-time All American Lloyd Teasley, 177, who won his third straight FWC title.

Gator coach Al Abraham was named Coach of the Year.

Westmoor Good, But SI Better

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Sports Writer

In any other season, a 23-4 record would be credential enough to get into the Central Coast Section basketball championships.

But this is 1975. And this is Region 1 of the CCS. And that's a team from St. Ignatius in the area. So the Westmoor Rams will have to buy tickets this weekend instead.

For the Rams, a highly successful season ended on a down note Saturday night at College of San Mateo when they were soundly trounced by SI 81-62.

So now the pressure is on the Wildcats. For the past three years, the Region 1 champion has gone on to win the CCS title. It's always also been the West Catholic Athletic League winner.

With a 27-1 record, the Wildcats will be favored, rightfully so, to make it four straight. They are the class of the area, a step above almost anything thrown against them so far.

They are so well balanced that they can seemingly afford key injuries and even disciplinary action to starters and not only survive — but thrive.

Such was the case against Westmoor, which could have had things going for it as the game began. Starting guard Denny Buick was watching in civvies after an operation on his hand. Starting center Michael Bowie was not starting his second straight game because of internal conflicts.

But Westmoor came through with problems of its own. The Rams suffered through their worst ball-handling night of the season, partly due to the Wildcats' defense and partly to just poor execution.

And the Wildcats, well-tempered after a mentally and physically trying jaunt through the WCAL, were up to the task. They simply dominated the Rams on the boards, and shot well outside the zone in the first half.

Westmoor had some strange statistics.

The Rams got just two offensive rebounds in the first half. Center Maurice Pittman didn't even put up a shot until 20 playing minutes had gone by. He wound up hitting three of four tries.

The Rams did have moments. Unfortunately for Westmoor, the Wildcats had minutes. The game started hopefully as SI committed eight fouls in the first six minutes, and it looked like foul trouble would be the Wildcats' undoing early.

But the fouls were spread out among six players, and more importantly, SI committed only one more the entire second quarter to keep Westmoor away from the charity stripe.

The Wildcats shot off to a quick 12-point lead and anytime it looked like a Westmoor surge was starting, SI would steal a couple passes and the rally would die.

"I had seen them play several times this year, and this was by far their worst ball-handling game," said SI coach Robert Drucker.

Mike McEvoy, who started in place of Buick, scored 19 to bring up another interesting plus for the 'Cats — superb play of their bench.

"Our subs had been our biggest asset lately," the balding SI mentor mentioned. "They have been playing so well off the bench that now the starters know it and they pushed themselves that much harder."

That must be great news for the rest of the CCS finalists.

Skyline Wins Finale

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

Despite one of its worst shooting nights of the season, the Skyline College basketball team won its final Coast Conference game of the year Wednesday over host Ohlone 74-58.

In their previous meeting in San Bruno, Skyline broke numerous school scoring records while registering a 122-104 win. The Trojans appeared to be duplicating that feat as they raced to an early 15-0 lead, then cooled off for a 46-28 margin at halftime.

A pesky full-court zone press coupled with the Trojans' vaunted fastbreak helped the visitors mount a comfortable 30-point lead with ten minutes left.

Ohlone outscored the North County squad 36-28 in the final 20 minutes, as substitutes took over and Coach

Lyle Newcomer experimented with several new offenses.

The Trojans could have led by even more in the first half, but poor shooting inside betrayed them. For the game, they shot a sub-par 39 per cent on 32 of 82 from the field. Ohlone, winless in conference play, fared even worse as the East Bay team went 26-69 for 37 per cent.

"We played a very good first half," said Newcomer. "We were very intense, the break went well and our press bothered them. However, after we got the big lead early we didn't play too hard. Actually, we missed far too many easy shots throughout the game."

Sophomore guard Wyatt Sweeney earned game honors with 18 points. Nick Pappageorge had 16 and Mark Mackenhausen 10. Sophomore center Bob Kilpatrick grabbed 16 rebounds, his high for the season.

Guldry and Hoffman both had 12 for Ohlone.

The Trojans finished their conference season 11-1 after clinching the championship Saturday night against Gavilan. SC is now 22-6 overall.

They are tentatively slated to play the Coast Conference All-Stars Friday, March 7 at Skyline before heading to the State championship tournament in Fresno where they will battle the winner of the Desert Conference on March 14.

Skyline Easily Tops Consumnes

Ike Allmond continued his winning ways in the hurdles and John Moreno scored points in three events to pace Skyline College to an easy 87-58 victory over Consummes River College's track and field team Saturday at Elk Grove.

Allmond, whose recent 14.6 clocking in the 120 high hurdles ranks as the state's fastest, won in 14.8 Saturday, then took the 440 hurdles in 57.8.

Moreno was second in the mile and 880 and third in the two-mile. It was the Trojans' 21st consecutive dual meet win, reported Coach Bob Luahati, whose club hosts the conference relays 11 a.m. Saturday at Skyline.

Jefferson High Wrestler Qualifies for State Meet

After a spectacular showing in the regional wrestling meet last weekend, the Mid-Peninsula League went into the Central Coast Section meet Saturday at Monte Vista High School sky high.

But after the smoke had cleared, the MPL had been put back into the crowd by the rugged grapplers of the South Bay.

The highest finish by a local team was a tie for 11th by San Mateo (with Palo Alto). Region winner Crestmoor was back in the pack.

The MPL will be sending four wrestlers to the State meet March 14 and 15 in Bakersfield. The SPAL has three representatives and the NPL one.

But the NPL had one champion, Jeff Vargas of Jefferson. Vargas, who was third in the CCS last year, captured the 138-pound class.

After winning his weight 3-1 in the finals, he now has a 44-2 season record. He will be the area's top hope in the State meet.

Gary Guile of San Mateo had the highest MPL placing, second. He was beaten by Kurt Pompay of Del Mar 5-0 in the finals. Buie had won all three of his previous matches by decision.

Tony Brewer of Palo Alto also took a second in the 154-lb. class.

The MPL had two third places. Hillsdale sophomore John Monolakis was third at 103's. He had to defeat Ed Stringer of San Mateo (for the third straight time) to get into the running for third and fourth.

Burlingame's best wrestler, Igor Vasey, took a third in 145's. To get into the third and fourth place matches, he had to beat San Mateo's Mike Coleman 1-0. Coleman was also beaten by Brewer 9-2.

Crestmoor's heavyweight, Craig Schoene, took the Falcons only place in the State meet with a fourth. He was beaten by Nick Porovecchio of Oak Grove in his final match.

Wes Chang of Gunn took a third at 112's and Dave Schultz of Palo Alto was fourth at 113's; they were the only other local placers.

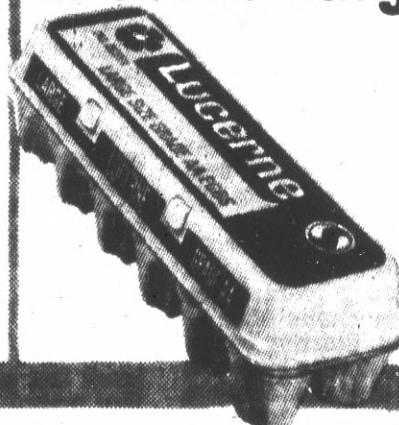

The top four finishers in the 13 weight classes are automatically in the State (California Interscholastic Federation) meet.

Improved Outlook for Handicapped Told

By LIN DAY

Despite the inflation-depression syndrome, more and more handicapped workers are being hired because it is good business, industry representatives and rehabilitation experts were told Feb. 25 in an all-day workshop at the Airport Marina, Burlingame.

Admitting the current economic situation had not made things easier, the government and volunteer organization experts told of developing placement programs in San Mateo County.

Despite the optimism of some with new programs that make hiring the handicapped a profitable venture, Bill Wilds, employment counselor, pointed out that "nothing we do here today will be worth a nickel unless we get employers to accept individuals with handicaps."

Elsie Vickery, executive director of the Children's Health Home, which operates a major sheltered workshop for the handicapped and which deals largely with handicapped adults, explained how the number of clients had climbed from 89 two years ago to 220, with 184 now in the workshop.

The program is moving out of the workshop, she said, with 30 now being paid in on-the-job training programs outside the workshop.

A special education teacher comes in twice a week, she said, to teach the handicapped budgeting, job applications, reading and other basic skills, and they are now moving out to jobs in the county and to a non-institutional environment.

Mrs. Vickery pointed out that the expansion to the active placement program has been aided by seven instructors provided by the Adult Education program of the San Mateo Union High School District, who have joined the 10 paid staff instructors and five volunteers at the workshop. (There also are 20 nursery volunteers.)

She described a case in which a handicapped young person who faced institutionalization was so restored in two-and-a-half years that he was able to move up to a $5-an-hour job and sustain himself in his own quarters as well as in his job.

Dr. George Pickett, director of San Mateo County Health and Welfare Department, declared, "I believe that handicapped individuals can present an employer with a better buy than non-handicapped."

"Rehabilitation directs an individual to use his ability to his utmost," Dr. Pickett said.

"What we are really talking about is the visibility of the handicapped," Dr. Pickett said. He added that a large number of a normal work force may be handicapped in some way that is not visible, whereas the visibly handicapped has a problem which is self-evident.

"Most of the rest of us," he said, "keep our handicaps deeply submerged, deeply hidden, where they may strike out unexpectedly in the middle of a work day."

"The visibly handicapped person has gone through an effective rehabilitation experience and has had the ultimate in testing before he comes to a job."

Ms. Marjorie Balazs, staff relations counselor of Stanford Research Institute, which has engaged in an award-winning hire-the-handicap program representing 12 per cent of its 3,000 employees, said the main reason an employer might not hire the handicapped is "unfamiliarity with what they can do."

"We have found," she said, "that with handicapped persons, the accident rate is lower and attendance and productivity are higher."

"They don't cost more money. Get into the scene of working with handicapped. It is the profitable thing to do."

In many ways, Ms. Balazs said, handicapped workers are superior on the job — "A blind person can clean a window better than I can, and faster."

Richard C. Wooten, Chief of the Mobility Barriers Section, California Department of Rehabilitation, said modification of work facilities to enable a handicapped person to function is often very simple and cheap.

It might cost more than $100 to lower a drinking fountain for a man in a wheelchair, he said, but all that is necessary is to place a paper cup dispenser beside it at a cost of a few dollars.

Sometimes it is a simple problem such as the doors to the lavatory cubicles swinging the wrong way, and all one needs to do is to turn the hinges around, he said. Or it may be setting up a few painted stalls in a parking lot to place handicapped persons near the door on arrival.

Wooten pointed out that some employers may never have wanted to hire the handicapped and then are confronted with the problem of a person who develops diabetes, or is injured in an accident, or has a heart attack.

"You have bought his valued services with years of salary, and you stand to lose this if the fail to modify," Wooten said. "To adapt to this with a new facility may cost less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of your payroll expenditure."

Wooten advised employers to look to what the handicapped can do, not what they can't. He reminded them that his department will come out and help plan facilities, and in some cases pay for it.

Richard Ridgeway, California Department of Rehabilitation supervisor, said his department is basically a series of offices located about the state which provides counselors for the handicapped and coordinates the multiple services available to them.

"In San Mateo County," Ridgeway said, "we have 16 serving as counselors and coordinators. Some are generalists, some specialists."

"To meet the criteria for the handicapped, a person must show a medical or physical disability which presents a job handicapped, and there must be a reasonable expectation that our provided services will work, that is, that he may become employed afterward."

One a handicapped person is determined to be eligible, he said, "We try to evaluate what his problems are. We use sheltered workshops and other resources to do this."

"Then we offer one of three types of plans: counseling, financial aid and training."

Financial aid may include such matters as providing needed licenses, union fees, special schooling, uniforms or transportation, he said.

For training, the department contracts with other agencies and training facilities, he continued. This can range from nurses' aide courses to enrolling an engineer at Stanford, he said. Counseling operates, headed, throughout the process. Ridgeway said the department is not a welfare program and that in some cases a client may own his own home and have a salary, and still get help and schooling.

The program is measure by its percentage of job placement, he said. It is "known to pay for itself, in taxes and reduced welfare benefits, in three years."

Kirby Shoaf, administrator of Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, and afternoon moderator, explained her agency's program and delineated three categories of visibly handicapped — physical, mental and emotional.

There are four programs at Crystal Springs, which has a 200-bed facility and is currently undergoing re-evaluation, she said: Physical needs, nursing service, psychiatric and alcoholism.

"We try to treat the whole person so he can become self-sufficient," she said.

Fire House on Flood Plain?

The new Linda Mar fire substation will be built on the edge of the San Pedro Creek flood plain, which means it would be inundated in the event of a 100-year flood.

That finding was expressed in a one-page negative declaration on the proposed firehouse when approved Monday night by the Pacifica Planning Commission.

It was noted in the report that since the lower story of the station will not be used for storing fire-fighting equipment, flooding would not pose a problem. And the declaration concluded the building of the firehouse would not produce a significant impact upon the environment.

Archaeologists have not found historical or archeological significance to the site which is upstream from the Sanchez Adobe and the ruins of an old mission.

The site is used as a playground and previously was graded.

In other business, planning commissioners approved a request for a sign for the new Park Mall Shopping Center, over-ruling a recommendation by City Planner Jim Miller to reduce the height to 10 feet. The sign was approved for 13-feet high and eight-feet wide. The commissioners also declined to have removed a multi-colored symbol in one corner, or to eliminate a masonry planter, as staff recommended. The exact size of the planter, however, remains in question.

Three members of the Sharp Park Improvement Council protested a general plan amendment for a series of parcels on Milagra Drive and Edgemoor Avenue, citing the city council's recent turn-down of SPIC's proposed general plan amendment for its neighborhood, on the basis that it would constitute piece-meal planning.

Planner Jim Miller, answering the argument of SPIC leader John Curtis that the proposal had not gone before the general plan update committee, explained that the matter does not deal with an entire neighborhood; just a few homes.

The proposal was held over to the March 17 meeting because the proponent, Gilbert Anda, was not present. Anda had wanted a rezoning and General Plan amendment to enable him to build a store, with an apartment upstairs.

Because numerous neighboring parcels had zonings and plan classifications that did not agree, Miller added other parcels to Anda's request.

Contractor Frank Mammini protested a condition placed upon his resubdivision of five Rockaway Beach lots into three lots, each of them slightly over the 5,000-square foot minimum.

Miller recommended approval of the resubdivision, but included a condition that "modern decorative electroliners with underground electrical service be installed in front of these parcels. Applicant shall post a two-year renewable bond for these improvements."

Mammini was acting on behalf of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Haskin. He complained that they could be making payments on the bond "for the next 20 years." He said there are no underground lines at present for him to connect to, and that he would be putting up the first street light on a street, Bay View Drive. It was unfair, he said, that he must pay all of the cost while other property owners on the street, who also would benefit, would pay nothing.

Although one commissioner suggested recommending to the city council that it form an underground utility district for the entire street, the commission finally approved the subdivision with the controversial condition — and no mention of an underground utility district.

Mammini was assured that there were power poles on both sides of the property, by which underground connections could be made.

Commissioners approved a permit for Hefner Type-writer Sales and Service to occupy a store on 630 Palmetto Ave.

Crime Prevention Bookmarks Being Distributed in DC

Lock it — lock it! — stop car theft.

This was the theme of Auto Theft Prevention Week-end, March 1 and 2, at the two major shopping centers for Daly City, Colma and Broadmoor.

The Serramonte Merchants Association and four merchants in the Serra Center agreed to distribute over 7,000 bookmarks, reminding customers to lock their cars and pocket their keys.

The design is courtesy of King Features and the Oakland Police Department, who originated the use of the "Wee Pals" in crime prevention.

At the same time, 100 posters donated by the California Highway Patrol were displayed.

This auto theft prevention weekend was supported by the Broadmoor, Colma and Daly City police departments.

The public service program was organized by C.A.P.T.U.R.E., a federally funded citizens crime prevention program in San Mateo County.

C.A.P.T.U.R.E. will be initiating other crime prevention programs in the North County, but its success depends on citizen participation.

Those who would like to know more about how to help, call Cookie Pettee, C.A.P.T.U.R.E. administrative assistant for the North County area, at 573-1445.

Pacifica Students Honored

Opening round winners in the Bank of America annual Achievement Awards program at Terra Nova High School in Pacifica have been announced.

Seniors competing for cash awards of up to $1,000 will be Annalisa Fields in fine arts, Rebecca Smith in liberal arts, James Schrempf in science and mathematics and Alexis Champneys in vocational arts.

Eleven other Terra Nova seniors received certificates of merit for superior performance in specific study fields. They included Scott Cobar, art; James Hursh, drama; Ronald Smith, music; Hans Weber, English; Brett Telegan, laboratory science; Brett Jorgensen, mathematics; Catherine Gallagher, business; Maria Walters, home economics; and Albert Escobedo, trades and industrial.

The four winning seniors will compete with other winning seniors from neighboring high schools in a mid-March zone competition. These winners then will advance to regional finals in May.

Sewer Lawsuit Settled

A suit which the Elmer J. Freethy Co. filed last year against the City of Pacifica for $820,929 has been settled, Mayor Aubrey Lumley III announced Feb. 25.

In an out of court settlement, the city agreed to pay the firm $140,000.

The suit was filed at the conclusion of the Freethy Company's construction of Pacifica's new sewage treatment plant, under a $3,551,150 contract.

Boreal Ski Trip Planned

The Daly City Recreation Department is organizing a "spring ski trip" to Boreal Ridge. The trip will be a one day ski venture on March 15. High school students from Westmoor, Serramonte, and Jefferson are invited to sign up.

Bus for the trip will leave from Serramonte High School at approximately 5 a.m. on Saturday. It will return approximately 9:30 p.m. Saturday night. Cost is $10 not including equipment or lift tickets.

Those teens interested in a full day of good skiing and wish further information, may call the Daly City Recreation Department at 992-5356, or look for further information in one of the bulletins of the three high schools.

Signups will be taken at the Recreation Office, 134 Hillside Blvd. through March 12.

Civic Ballet Members Sell Cook Books

The Daly City Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, has collected its favorite recipes and compiled a "Dancer's Cook Book."

The Civic Ballet is under the instruction of Diane Roberts, dance specialist for the Recreation Department.

"The Dancer's Cook Book" not only contains many recipes, but also has a number of ballet definitions and illustrations artistically presented by Miss Roberts.

The book is on sale for $2.

Freethy alleged that the city supplied him with misleading plans and specifications, failed to impart knowledge it had of the difficulties to be encountered during construction, failed to process change orders on time and failed to supply necessary drawings. As a result, he said his firm and his subcontractors incurred extra expenses.

The company asked $820,929 for expenses.

The city council approved final terms of the settlement in a closed negotiation meeting early Tuesday morning. The company's claim now will be dismissed with prejudice. This form of dismissal simply means that the matter cannot legally be raised again in any court of law.

Meanwhile, City Atty. John Sherman said a suit the city had filed against the Healy-Tibbitts Co., which built the sewer outfall line and fishing pier, has been dropped.

The suit was filed after city engineers became concerned over an apparent slippage of a pipe elbow at the end of the fishing pier. At the time, it was feared that the pipe may become separated.

The Healy-Tibbitts Co. later installed a split collar, at a cost of $6,000, which secured the pipe connection, Sherman said. City officials decided that the line was safe, and dismissed the suit.

The work has been accepted by the city, Sherman said.

Many Pacificans Back 380 Proposal

By JACK BIK

Pacific residents want Interstate 380 completed, they are divided over where to build a civic center, if any. They don't want Highway 1 improved, and they don't want any more growth.

At least, this is their opinion, according to a survey of city residents the results of which were released last week. The survey was taken at the end of last year in connection with a survey of animal owners taken by the Peninsula Humane Society, but tallied up only last week.

The methodology of the survey has been criticized, but it is still thought to provide some indication of public opinion, in cases where the results were not close. Preliminary release of the results of the freeway question may have had something to do with the 3-2 decision of the city council to place the issue on the ballot.

A total of some 9,900 persons were surveyed. There are estimated to be some 11,200 households in Pacifica and about 38,000 persons. Although 9,900 is far more than would be questioned in a Gallup-type poll, there is some question of how scientific a sample the Humane Society poll is.

Don Jeffers, administrative assistant who worked with the Humane Society, felt that the survey was simply a poll of whomever happened to come to the door. There also has been some criticism of the wording of the questions.

Most vital question was: "What statement is closest to your feelings about an east-west lateral?" There were 2,336 who favored "support the completion of Interstate 380 as proposed," while 1,141 opposed completion of it. Others were: No project at all, 679; support the completion of Interstate 380 with modification, 638; favor upgrading of Sharp Park Road at city expense, 642; and favor exit from the rear of San Pedro Valley through the Crystal Springs watershed, 245.

The largest number, 1,419, did not feel that Pacifica needs a civic center. Of seven sites considered, the votes were: West Sharp Park area, 1,046; Fassler Avenue near Seabowl, 812; Linda Mar-Park Pacifica area, 620; Eureka Square Area, 518. A total of 732 voted for "other."

Favoring a bond issue to buy the beaches were 3,559 with 2,377 opposed. An overwhelming majority, 5,112, are willing to separate cans, bottles and newspapers from garbage for pickup and later recycling. Only 986 are unwilling to separate trash. Only 1,218 pay for child-care to enable them to work or go to school, while 5,035 do not, the survey showed.

Of those supporting the improvement of Highway 1, 1,172 wanted a freeway with on-ramps, while 1,058 wanted simply an expressway with signals. However, 1,739 wanted no change. A total of 717 wanted the highway widened into the western beach area, while 398 wanted it widened into the eastern residential area.

A new swimming pool was thought to be the most needed recreation facility, with 3,245 votes, 2,685 favored neighborhood parks, 1,986 wanted bicycle, hiking and riding trails, and 1,983 backed tennis courts. Others included: theater auditorium, 1,283; picnic facilities, 1,253; baseball fields, 860; motorcycle facilities, 645, and none, 417.

A total of 2535 residents said they planned to use the new bus system as a feeder to BART or Greyhound, while 1,326 plan to use it to go to work. Others included: medical or personal services, 745; shopping, 476; to recreation facilities, 212; visiting, 110; Skyline College, 77, and school, 63.

Aiming at a maximum population of 40,000 to 45,000 were 3,460, with 820 wanting a population of 45,000 to 50,000. Others were: 50,000 to 55,000, favored by 266; 55,000 to 60,000, favored by 155, and 60,000 to 65,000, favored by 268. Current population is listed at 39,000.

A boating facility in Rockaway Beach is favored by 2,115, while 1,753 residents want the facility at San Pedro Beach. Launching facilities are favored by 2,005, while storage slips are wanted by 1,159 residents.

Major reason for shopping outside of Pacifica was given as "wider choice," 1,799, with 829 seeking lower prices. Other reasons given were: availability, 657; convenience, 602; quality, 224, and service, 130. Voting for all of the above were 1,561, while 304 voted for "other."

SP Upgrading Options Told at SF Meeting

Transportation between Peninsula cities was discussed by three experts in the field Thursday at a meeting of the League of California Cities held in San Francisco.

It originally had been planned to have Mayor Joseph Alioto as guest speaker at the meeting held at a Fishermen's Wharf restaurant. The mayor did not appear, however.

Instead, Supervisor Quenton Kopp, a member of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, welcomed the more than 100 league members and their wives attending the function.

Eric Mohr, Metropolitan Transportation Commission consultant, spoke on options surrounding use of Southern Pacific rail service as a rapid transit system between San Francisco and San Jose.

Mohr submitted a feasibility study for upgrading SP passenger service recently compiled by the MTC.

Cost and variations ranged from minor upgrading of SP—including better bus feeder service, better stations and vehicular parking, costing some $1 million — to complicated interfacing of SP lines with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District at different Peninsula points at a cost of some $65 million.

Also mentioned was utilization of bus rapid transit down existing West Bay corridors.

Leo J. Trombatore, head of the California Transportation Division (CALTRANS) planning staff, spoke on the current status of highway projects along the Peninsula.

Trombatore said there are no new projects anticipated in the San Francisco area.

Presently, Interstate 280 is being extended from its termination point at Third Street in San Francisco to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

He called the extension "vitaly important to the relief of (traffic on) Bayshore Freeway."

He cited San Mateo Route 92, from Grant to Norfolk, as being "substandard and highly unsatisfactory," but was not able to predict when this route would be improved.

The Dumbarton Bridge, which could cost an estimated $92 million to replace, was the topic of a public hearing held by the Coast Guard Feb. 19. East Bay cities want the bridge, but two West Bay cities—Atherton and Palo Alto—are opposed to it.

After Trombatore had concluded his talk, Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley asked why the state planner had not discussed the status of Interstate 380 between San Bruno and Pacifica.

He said Interstate 380 "is still a good job... and of regional concern." However, if money was available now it would still have to compete with other projects in the state for funding.

Although the matter is under partial litigation, a final environmental impact report on 380 is being prepared, he said.

San Mateo Mayor John Condon asked John Beckett, chairman of the MTC, how long it will be before residents will be required to pay a tax for the entire BART system once they decide on such a system?

Beckett said San Mateo County does not have to join BART and there is no "admission fee" for building a fixed rail system unless it is annexed to BART.

Such a system could be operational within four years from the time it begins, Beckett said.

Financing of a rail transit system poses a different question, inasmuch as it isn't known how the county would levy taxes on property, sales or gasoline, Beckett said.
